Aisha Saves the Planet!

Princess Superhero Stops Super Volcano from Destroying the Planet

People around the globe were celebrating last night after Aisha, the superhero princess, saved the planet from certain destruction.

At around 7 p.m. last night, the King received a phone call from some very important and very clever scientists saying that a volcano was about to erupt. Aisha overheard her father on the phone and she wasted no time springing into action. She quickly grabbed her superhero cape, climbed out of her bedroom window and ran to the barn where she kept her super jet.

Aisha, who is no ordinary princess, got into her super jet and started the engine. She flew through the thick clouds until she reached the volcano.

The volcano was spewing out hot, fiery rocks, but Aisha, without hesitation, climbed up to the top.

Once she had reached the top, she quickly tipped in the superhero super volcano coolant she had made for just such occasions.

Aisha climbed the volcano while hot rocks rained down.

Scientist, Professor Clever, said, "Aisha's quick reactions saved the world from certain destruction. We all owe her our lives."
